Teaching Professors

1/ About Rennes School of Business

Rennes School of Business is a steadily growing Institution offering undergraduate, postgraduate and doctoral level courses to more than 4,500 students from across the world.

Rennes School of Business holds the gold standard of 'triple crown' accreditation (AACSB, EQUIS et AMBA), and is regarded as the most international business school in France and one of the most multi-cultural of its kind with 95% of its Faculty team originating from 40 different overseas countries.

The same applies for the student body, with 55% of our cohorts originating from 70 overseas countries. This ensures that the School is able to offer an ideal working environment for international professors.

Rennes School of Business runs a very complete portfolio of international programmes, including: PhD, DBA, EMBA, iMBA, Specialised Masters, Grande École Masters in Management (PGE) and an undergraduate level Bachelors. English is the main working language and language of instruction used across the School.

Rennes is the capital city of the Brittany region, and is located just 1h30 from Paris by the TGV high-speed train. Rennes is also at the heart of a dynamic economic zone that is recognised for its excellent quality of life, as well as an exceptional cultural and educational environment offering a broad range of private and public facilities.

Rennes is also home to a leading technology hub and a dynamic entrepreneurial eco-system.

Within the scope of the development of its International Bachelor Programme in Management (IBPM), in particular, Rennes School of Business wishes to further expand its faculty team by recruiting teaching professors, who may also be required to teach on other programmes in the School's portfolio.

The objective of the IBPM is to offer school leavers with a programme of study that is both academic and practical, providing solid foundations in business administration within a high-level international academic environment.

Accredited by the national authorities at undergraduate level (Bac+3), the programme is designed to equip students for employment in the French or overseas job market, or to pursue their studies at Master's level.
